

John F. Kennedy - Again, I love history! And since I was young I was fascinated by this president, and always mused about his death. He lived through a hard time, and lead a country at a hard time, even though he was in office for such a short time.

He was a man who inspired creative thinking and thinking beyond what is considered typical and accepted. He was brilliant and someone whom I could learn a lot from — not only in specific ideas and thoughts, but an entire way of thinking. He was willing to explore different areas of thought beyond just one particular field. He also didn't let society or negative reactions stop him from continuing his work.
[

I think he would be good company, and it would be interesting to see his reaction to all that has unfolded since he died, who gives him hope when all seems hopeless, who shows her dreams in the midst of nightmares, and teaches us all to face fear with strong determination" (11). Recognizing the importance that a teacher can hold in a student's life, this assignment asks students to universal responsibility,solving problems between people, religions and nations.